

YES PROGRAM

Lower Drop Out Rates: “At risk” youth continue in the educational system and complete their education. The program itself requires that participants be active and current in the educational system.

Higher Education and Skill Levels: Program graduates will have an option to use the matched savings for a post-secondary education either at a college, university, vocational, or technical school.

Practical Experience: The YES program’s goal setting component teaches accountability and responsibility. The program holds the participants accountable to follow through with their obligations in order to successfully achieve their goals. Accountability and responsibility through practical goal setting is an integral part of integrity and character development.

Higher Standards of Living for Successful Graduates: Graduates with stronger education and skill levels will be more attractive to employers and will command higher salaries. Through the process of goal setting and a series of successes, it is the vision that program participants will be empowered and confident in
